Apples Useless in Attempted Thefts

Winston-Salem, N.C., authorities caught a teen accused of trying to carry out a robbery by concealing a banana beneath his shirt to resemble a gun Thursday. Police say John Szwalla entered a cafe and demanded money, saying he had a gun. The owner and a customer jumped Szwalla, holding him until deputies arrived. While they waited, the teen ate the banana. (AP)

A Springfield, Mass., hospital is trying to figure out what to do with a window in which some Catholics claim to see an image of the Virgin Mary. Hundreds of faithful gathered last October to view the second-story office window at Mercy Medical Center. The Catholic hospital removed the window after the crush of visitors caused traffic problems. Hospital spokesman Mark Fulco says he's waiting for a report from experts to determine whether the window is worthy of veneration. Engineers say the image appeared when a failed rubber seal allowed mineral deposits between panes of glass. (AP)

Scientists Seek HIV Antibodies

New method of gene insertion successful in tests with animals

WASHINGTON | Like a general whose direct attacks aren't working, scientists are now trying to outflank the HIV/AIDS virus.

Having failed to develop a vaccine that would cause the body's natural immune system to battle the virus, researchers are testing inserting a gene into the muscle that can cause it to produce protective antibodies against HIV.

The new method worked in mice and now has proved successful in monkeys, too, researchers reported Sunday in the journal Nature Medicine. The team is led by Dr. Philip R. Johnson of the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

That doesn't mean an AIDS vaccine for people is in the wings, Johnson said. Years of work may lie ahead before a product is ready for human use. RANDOLPH E. SCHMID (AP)

Tensions Flare at Obama Speech

President is heckled for abortion views at Notre Dame event

SOUTH BEND, IND. | President Obama strode head-on Sunday into the stormy abortion debate and told graduates at America's leading Roman Catholic university that both sides must stop demonizing one another.

Obama acknowledged that "no matter how much we want to fudge it ... the fact is that at some level, the views of the two camps are irreconcilable." But he still implored the University of Notre Dame's graduating class and all in the U.S. to stop "reducing those with differing views to caricature. Open hearts. Open minds. Fair-minded words. It's a way of life that always has been the Notre Dame tradition."

One of the noisiest controversies of his young presidency flared after Obama, who supports abortion rights, was invited to speak at the school and receive an honorary degree. "I do not suggest that the debate surrounding abortion can or should go away," the president said.

The Rev. John Jenkins, Notre Dame's president, introduced Obama and praised him for not being "someone who stops talking to those who disagree with him."

Ahead of Obama's address, at least 27 people were arrested on trespassing charges. They included Norma McCorvey, the plaintiff identified as "Roe" in the Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion. She now opposes abortion and joined more than 300 anti-abortion demonstrators at the school's front gate.

More than half held signs, some declaring "Shame on Notre Dame" and "Stop Abortion Now."

Obama entered the arena to applause and a standing ovation from many in the crowd. But as the president began his address, at least three protesters interrupted it. One yelled, "Stop killing our children." JULIE PAGE (AP)

Stripped Bolt Gives Astronaut Fits

Spaceman uses brute force to dislodge part of Hubble Telescope

HOUSTON | Spacewalkers' specially designed tools couldn't dislodge a balky bolt interfering with repairs Sunday at the Hubble Space Telescope, so they took an approach more familiar to people puttering around down on Earth: use brute force.

And it worked. Atlantis astronaut Michael Massimino couldn't remove one bolt attaching a hand rail to the outside of a scientific instrument he needed to fix. The rail had to be removed or at least bent out of the way. And that was only the beginning of a hard-luck day.

When several tries with different expensive tools couldn't remove the stripped-out bolt, Mission Control in Houston told Massimino to could only listen as Massimino took a breath and pulled.

After a second of silence, Massimino calmly said: "disposal bag, please."

After nearly two hours of work on the balky bolt, astronauts went back to the plan to bring a science instrument back from the dead. They took a breather, then began working on the Space Telescope Imaging Spectrograph, disabled by a power failure five years ago.

Three of the four Hubble spacewalks so far this mission have been delayed by problems, such as stubborn bolts and objects that wouldn't fit. A final spacewalk is set for Monday. SETH BORENSTEIN (AP)

N.Y.C. Schools Close for the Flu

NEW YORK | Five more New York City schools are closing because of swine flu, bringing the current total to 11.

Health officials say four public schools and one Catholic school in Queens will close Monday for up to five school days. Each of them had students with flu-like illnesses last week. Six other schools were closed over the last few days after hundreds of students became ill with suspected swine flu symptoms. An assistant principal at one school remains critically ill. (AP)

Imam Zaid Shakir, a Muslim scholar, plans to open Zaytuna College, a educational institution that would be the first four-year accredited American Islamic college.

Islamic College Is Planned for Calif.

Group seeks to found

U.S. school of its kind

PLAINSBORO, N.J. | A group of American Muslims, led by two prominent scholars, is moving closer to fulfilling a vision of founding the first four-year accredited Islamic college in the United States, what some are calling a "Muslim Georgetown."

Advisers to the project have scheduled a June vote to decide whether the proposed Zaytuna College can open in the fall of next year, a major step toward developing the faith in America.

Imam Zaid Shakir and Sheikh Hamza Yusuf of California have spent years planning the school, which will offer a liberal arts education and training in Islamic scholarship. Shakir, a California native, sees the school in the tradition of other religious groups that formed universities to educate leaders and carve a space in the mainstream of American life.

"As a faith community, our needs aren't any different than the needs of any other faith community," Shakir told the Council for the Advancement of Muslim Professionals, as he sought donations in New Jersey. "As Muslims, we need to develop institutions to allow us to perpetuate our values."

Zaytuna College will start with two majors: Arabic language, and Islamic legal and theological studies. It will not be a seminary.

Zaytuna will start in Berkeley and will seek accreditation from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. All faiths will be welcome, academic freedom will be protected, and there will be no separation of men and women, said Hatem Bazian, a Zaytuna adviser.

Newly elected parliament member Aseel Al-Awadhi reaches out to a crowd of supporters as she celebrates her election victory in Kuwait City, Kuwait, on Sunday.

4 Kuwaiti Women Join Parliament

Females win powerful positions for first time in country's history

KUWAIT CITY | Kuwaitis elected female parliament members for the first time and rejected a number of Islamic fundamentalist candidates in a weekend vote that many hoped would bring stability to the country's rocky political scene.

Women gained the right to vote and run for office in 2005 but failed in two previous elections to win seats in the 50-member parliament. Four women were elected in Saturday's vote, according to official results read by judges on state-owned TV on Sunday.

Kuwait has led the region in giving its people democratic rights. It has an elected parliament that wields considerable power, but the Cabinet is still chosen and led by a ruling family.

Radical religious politicians have fought against extending polit-

Darfur Rebel to Face Hague Court

ICC judges summon 3 Sudanese leaders accused of war crimes

UNITED NATIONS | The International Criminal Court's pretrial judges have summoned three Sudanese rebel leaders to appear before the Hague-based tribunal to face charges of ordering a deadly attack against African Union peacekeepers in Darfur more than 18 months ago, according to sources close to the court.

Abu Garda
It is the first time that Darfur's rebels have been charged with war crimes since the court opened its investigation into mass violence in Darfur in 2005. Until now, the court's chief prosecutor, Luis Moreno-Ocampo, has focused primarily on the Sudanese government's role in atrocities, issuing arrest warrants for Sudan's President, Omar Hassan al-Bashir, a top aide and an allied militia leader.

The court's pretrial judges issued a sealed ruling on May 7 that there were "reasonable grounds" to believe that the three rebel officers committed war crimes when they led a September, 29, 2007, raid on an African Union compound in Haskanita, Darfur, killing 12 peacekeepers.

One of the accused commanders, Bahar Idris Abu Garda, who now heads the breakaway rebel United Resistance Front, voluntarily surrendered himself to the court.

He is scheduled to appear Monday before the court, where he is charged with three counts of war crimes, including murder.

A Revolutionary Commute

If you've considered biking to work, don't let these 4 excuses stand in your way

NEW YORK | Bike to work, save money, get fit, help the environment. It seems like a no-brainer, yet you still drive to the office every day.

One reason for putting off a bike-to-work resolution might be all the logistics involved, such as where to store your bike and how to get your belongings to and from the office.

If the goal is to save money, you might be reluctant to spend hundreds of dollars on a bike and equipment before knowing you can stick with the habit.

All are valid reservations, but none is necessarily a deal breaker. As the weather warms up, the reasons for procrastinating are dwindling. Here's a rundown of some common excuses and why they shouldn't stop you.

I'm not sure it's right for me

It's natural to think twice about any major purchase; you don't want a shiny new bike sitting around in a dusty corner of your home. One way to prevent such a fate is to rent or borrow. The try-before-you-buy strategy also lets you make test rides of possible routes to work.

I'm worried the costs will outweigh the savings

Even though biking can save money in the long run, there are still significant up-front costs. If the bike's main purpose is for commuting, you can probably stick with a traditional bike.

I don't want to get sweaty before work

A common concern is the need to change in and out of work clothes. But you don't necessarily need to make an outfit change.

"Unless you're riding for endurance, you can wear your everyday street clothes for normal commuting," said Meghan Cahill, a spokeswoman for the League of American Bicyclists, an advocacy group.

I need a bigger cash incentive

Besides the savings on gas and parking, you could also get a $20 monthly stipend from your employer for biking to work.

The stipend was made available under legislation passed last year, which gives companies tax credits if they decide to offer the allowance. It's worth asking about; your employer simply might not know about it.

The regular exercise could also let you cut a pricey gym membership. CANDICE CHOI (AP)

A Sobering Decline at Preakness

Pimlico's beer policy change severely cuts into race attendance

BALTIMORE | The Preakness infield was set up for the usual huge crowd. The stage for ZZ Top was ready, the security guards in place and the vendors eager to hawk their beer, food and souvenirs.

Only one thing was missing: people.

The new policy prohibiting fans from bringing in their own beer severely cut into the attendance Saturday at Pimlico Race Course. Sections of the infield ordinarily jammed with teenagers, rowdy young men and scantily clad women remained completely empty. Lines at the portable toilets, concession stands and souvenir shops were nonexistent.

That might seem like a good thing to those in attendance. But many rated the new format a complete dud.

A smattering of people on the infield before the 134th Preakness Stakes Saturday. A new policy prohibiting fans from bringing their own beer hurt cut into attendance.

"They need to bring back the coolers, bring back the party. There's nothing going on here," said Wallace Moore, 28, who set up his chair about 30 feet from the track. "Last year, I couldn't even find a spot to sit down. Now I've got my pick of anywhere."

77,850

The attendance at Pimlico Race Course Saturday, down from 112K last year, which was down 7.5% from 2007.

The policy change was designed to create a different environment in the anything-goes infield, where fans running atop the portable toilets became stars in YouTube videos and others lobbed full cans of beer at one another.

"It needed to change," Tom Chuckas, chief operating officer of the Maryland Jockey Club, said. "We tried to reduce some of the craziness, but tradition is very difficult to change, and culture is difficult to change."

Chuckas acknowledged that the change would cost Pimlico at the ticket and betting windows. But he insisted the track will never again allow fans to bring their own beer.

D.C. Brass' Nats Ticket Spat Ends

Council wins standoff with Fenty concerning seats in ballpark suite

The baseball ticket standoff between Mayor Adrian M. Fenty and the D.C. Council ended quietly Saturday when a young woman from the office of Deputy Mayor Neil O. Albert handed them over.

Starting with Wednesday's game against Pittsburgh, the council members will have access to the 19 seats in Suite 61 until the end of the season, Council Chairman Vincent C. Gray announced Sunday.

"The unnecessary delay in giving the council its tickets was an unfortunate distraction from the real and important work of the government," Gray said in the statement. "My colleagues join me in welcoming the opportunity to make tickets available to constituents who might not otherwise be able to attend a game at the ballpark. I will be working on a permanent solution that will avert this controversy from being repeated again."

Phillies Complete Nationals Sweep

Demoralizing series comes to an end with Washington winless

NATIONALS | A four-game series of perilous pitching and dodgy fielding mercifully came to an end Sunday, with the Philadelphia Phillies completing a sweep of the worst-in-NL staff of the Washington Nationals.

A two-base error on an eighth-inning bunt provided the go-ahead run as the Phillies won 8-6, capping a series that included 55 runs, 42 walks and enough long innings to make any fan restless.

Sergio Escalona (1-0), called up overnight from Double-A Reading, got the win in his major league debut by throwing one scoreless inning of middle relief, practically a standout performance among the only two National League clubs with team ERAs over 5.00.

Trailing 6-5 in the top of the eighth, the Phillies got the first two men on base against reliever Julian Tavarez (0-3), and Pedro Feliz tried to bunt them over.

Pitcher Jesus Colome fielded the ball and threw accurately to first, but second baseman Anderson Hernandez — who was covering the bag — inexplicably moved out of the way at the last second and let the ball go into right field. Two runs were scored, and Colome was given a two-base error.

Both teams tallied at least five runs in every game of the series, which included a rain-shortened nightcap of a day-night double-header Saturday. The Phillies, already the NL's top scoring team on the road this season, finished with 33 runs in the series' 35 innings.

The pitchers — and there were a combined 11 of them used Sunday — were so unpredictable that home plate umpire Mike Reilly warned both dugouts in the fifth inning after Josh Willingham became the third hit batter of the game.

Nationals leadoff hitter Cristian Guzman got three hits to raise his average to .381. JOSEPH WHITE (AP)

Damon's HR Gives Yankees 3rd-Straight Walk-Off Win

Johnny Damon homered in the 10th inning, giving the surging New York Yankees a 3-2 victory Sunday and their third-straight comeback win over the Minnesota Twins that was capped by a game-ending hit. Alex Rodriguez homered in the seventh to start New York's rally from a two-run deficit. Rodriguez's 11th-inning homer won it Saturday 6-4. (AP)

Royals Work Past Errors to Top O's

Kansas City takes over first place in AL Central with victory

ORIOLES | John Buck's RBI triple snapped an eighth-inning tie, and the Kansas City Royals overcame four errors Sunday to beat the Baltimore Orioles 7-4.

Jose Cruz (3-0), the fourth Royals pitcher, retired all six batters he faced for his 11th straight winning decision. He has not lost since June 9, 2007, when he was with Arizona.

The four errors were the most for Kansas City since a four-error game against Detroit on July 16, 2005.

Buck, Jose Guillen and Butler each had two RBI for the Royals, who had lost seven of eight after winning six in a row and taking over first place in the AL Central.

Baltimore starter Koji Uehara allowed only two hits the first five innings, but surrendered two doubles and two singles to the first four batters in the sixth, and left trailing 4-3.

Felix Pie had an RBI triple in the Baltimore third and scored on Brian Roberts' single. (AP)

BASEBALL No Harm, No Foul An error on the Tampa Bay Rays' official lineup card — which originally listed Ben Zobrist and Evan Longoria as the third baseman — cost the team a designated hitter for a day and forced starting pitcher Andy Sonnanstine to bat in Sunday's game against Cleveland. It turns out the error didn't cost the Rays much, though. After going hitless in his first two at-bats, Sonnanstine had an RBI double to left during a five-run fourth that put Tampa Bay ahead 7-3. Lakers Blow Past Rockets

Game 7 quickly turns into a laugher; next up for L.A. is Denver

NBA PLAYOFFS | Kobe Bryant, Pau Gasol and the Los Angeles Lakers emphatically silenced the doubters and the Houston Rockets, winning Game 7 of the Western Conference semifinals 89-70 on Sunday.

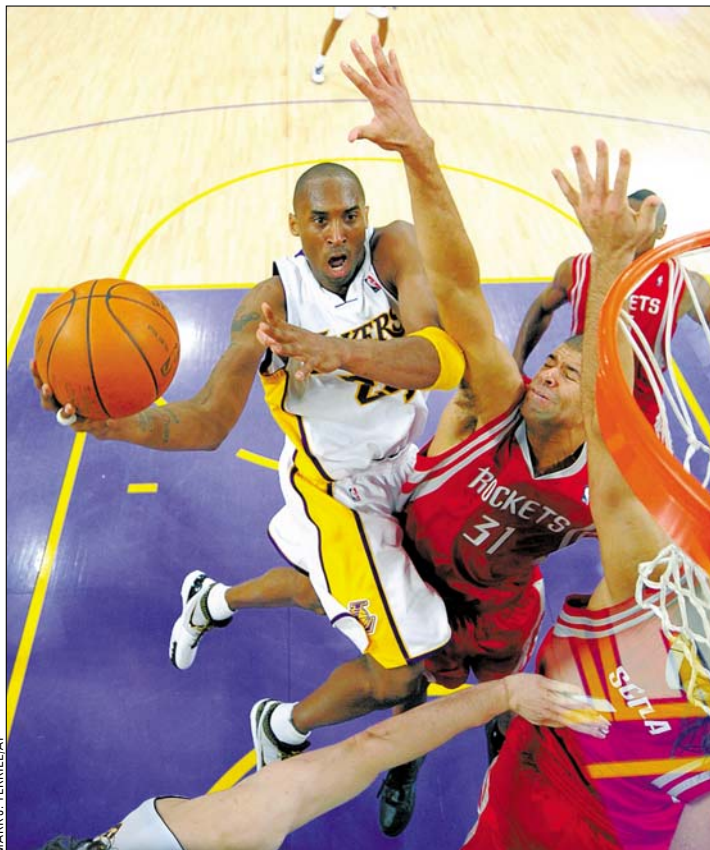

With Gasol scoring 21 points and grabbing 18 rebounds, the Lakers looked like the conference's top-seeded team, not the maddeningly inconsistent one that was pushed to the decisive final game by the undermanned Rockets.

The Lakers dominated the paint on both ends, forcing the Rockets into turnovers and bad shots, and owning the backboards.

They had an 8-0 lead a few minutes in and widened it to 25 points on Gasol's jump hook shortly before halftime.

The Lakers, trying to reach the NBA finals for the second straight year, host the opener of the conference finals against the Denver Nuggets on Tuesday night.

Trevor Ariza scored 15 points, and Bryant and Andrew Bynum 14 each. Bryant added five assists and seven rebounds.

Lakers guard Kobe Bryant drives to the basket against the Rockets during Game 7 of the Western Conference semifinals Sunday. The Lakers next face the Nuggets.

Aaron Brooks scored 13 and Luis Scola 11 for Houston. Ron Artest (seven points) and Shane Battier (three) were non-factors.

The Lakers have been so up and down in this series that coach Phil Jackson said before Game 5 that they had a little bit of Jekyll and Hyde in them. That was the night the Lakers raced to a 40-point win at home, only to follow it by getting blindsided a second straight game in Houston, losing two nights later by 15. BERNIE WILSON (AP)

Filly Shows Winning Colors

After Preakness win, Rachel Alexandra may skip the Belmont

HORSE RACING | Rachel Alexandra joined an impressive list when she became the first filly in 85 years to win the second leg of the Triple Crown. Now her next step will be closely watched.

By showing she could beat the boys after vanquishing her own gender, Rachel Alexandra may have earned an extended break. Or her one-length victory Saturday could set the stage for a rematch with Kentucky Derby winner Mine That Bird in the Belmont Stakes on June 6.

Mine That Bird's runner-up Preakness finish means there will be no Triple Crown this year, but getting him and the filly together in New York could prove to be an attractive alternative.

Rachel Alexandra's victory moved her alongside such famous fillies as Derby winners Genuine Risk and Winning Colors, undefeated Personal Ensign and the doomed Ruffian and Go For Wand. "It puts her right up there with some special company," trainer Steve Asmussen said. "She's a tremendous machine."

While not ruling out the Belmont, Asmussen seemed less inclined to run the filly in the longest and most grueling of the Triple Crown races. "I don't feel the urgency to prove it that I did earlier," he said. "We're in a lot stronger position coming off the win."

The last filly to win the Belmont was Rags to Riches in 2007, ending a 102-year drought for females in the 1 1/2-mile race. The only other filly winners were Tanya in 1905 and Ruthless in 1867. BETH HARRIS (AP)

WIMBLEDON | ALL ENGLAND CLUB RAISES THE ROOF

WEATHER OR NOT: Kim Clijsters teams with Tim Henman against the husband and wife team of Andre Agassi and Steffi Graf during a mixed doubles match at Wimbledon's Centre Court on Sunday. The exhibition was played to help show off the All England Club's new moving roof, installed so the championship can be played even if it's raining in London.

TENNIS Roger That Roger Federer beat top-ranked Rafael Nadal in a final for the first time in two years on Sunday, claiming the Madrid Open 6-4, 6-4 for his first title of the season. It is only the second victory Federer has had on clay against his top rival, whose 33-match clay winning streak came to an end. Nadal has won four straight French Opens. (AP)

We sure wouldn't mess with Dickinson.

Royal Celebrity Rumble

Janice Dickinson wants Speidi blood
on a new reality show

RIVALRY | Heidi and Spencer had better watch their backs.

TV host Janice Dickinson says she can't wait to pounce on fame-hungry newlyweds Heidi Montag and Spencer Pratt in the Costa Rican jungle, where they're all about to film the reality show "I'm a Celebrity ... Get Me Out of Here!"

In an interview with fellow cast member Stephen Baldwin, Dickinson schemed: "Stephen, we're gonna get 'em. This one's gonna be fun."

Dickinson, who's known for her brash, in-your-face personality, said she feels like a cat — and the ball of yarn is Pratt, the resident villain on MTV's "The Hills."

Meanwhile, Baldwin — an actor, reality-show regular and born-again Christian — thinks Pratt might beat him up.

The series premieres June 1 on NBC. (AP)

'90S FLASHBACK: Adrian Young, Gwen Stefani, Tony Kanal and Tom Dumont of No Doubt get cozy before their summer tour.

A Second Doubt

Gwen Stefani always knew she and her band would eventually get their groove back

TOGETHER AGAIN | Gwen Stefani may be a superstar pop singer, hit songwriter, fashion maven and role model for millions of girls and young women, but on a brutally hot afternoon recently, on a loading dock outside a largely empty sports arena here, she was just a mom, trying to keep her 3-year-old son entertained.

She's preparing for the first full-scale concert tour in seven years by No Doubt, the once-scrappy ska-rock group that emerged from Anaheim to become one of the biggest-selling pop music acts of the 1990s and early 2000s.

Inside the new Citizens Business Bank Arena a short time later, Stefani, bassist Tony Kanal, guitarist Tom Dumont and drummer Adrian Young were showing pretty much the same childlike exuberance and energy as they bounced around the gleaming white retro-futuristic stage set they were trying out for the first time before the tour kickoff Saturday in Las Vegas.

After a group hiatus of five years during which Stefani put out two multimillion-selling solo albums, "Love.Angel.Music.

Baby" and "The Sweet Escape," No Doubt is back. Judging by the early box-office response to the nearly 60 shows scheduled across North America, the quartet is poised for one of the biggest tours of 2009 (see them at Nissan Pavilion on June 14).

"Physically, it feels right — I feel powerful again; I feel modern again."

During the break, many fans wondered whether Stefani's solo career would mean the end of the road for the Orange County band that launched her, but in Stefani's mind there was always No Doubt.

"The day I got home after my tour ended last year, I wanted to do a photo shoot with the group — I thought it was an important thing to do," Stefani, 39, said. "This is what I told the guys: The plan was, I wanted to do the dance record, go on the tour, come home and get pregnant," she said with a laugh, before elaborating on her plan. "Then after the baby is born, we'll go on tour and we'll have a new No Doubt record."

No Doubt is finding it illuminating to pick up where the group left off five years ago. But all four band members say that they aren't interested in milking the nostalgia circuit and that they consider this tour a steppingstone in the creative process.

"It feels so much more right than I thought it was going to feel," Stefani said. "Physically, it feels right — I feel powerful again; I feel modern again." RANDY LEWIS

BOX OFFICE Code, Hard Cash "Angels & Demons" took the top spot at the box office from "Star Trek" by earning $48 million in its first weekend of release. The haul was far less than the earlier Dan Brown adaptation, "The Da Vinci Code" — which earned $77.1 million when it opened in 2006 — but still enough to narrowly topple the popular "Star Trek." In its second weekend, "Star Trek" took in $43 million, a strong number after its $75.2 million opening last weekend. (AP)

Reclaim Your Territory

For one brief, shining moment, Georgetown will be free of both students and interns

HAPPY HOURS | Now is the time, residents of the District, to swoop in and enjoy Georgetown — this weekend marked the end of the Georgetown school year.

Before the interns ruin everything — for what is an intern but a college student with a smug smile and a government ID? — take advantage of the bars and happy hours that normally don't seem worth wading through the crowds of drunken 18-year-olds with their hats on backward for.

Start at Third Edition, where the drink and food specials are ever present and ever changing. Take a crack at the dancefloor when it's not bone-crushingly crowded and revel in the novelty of a bar that

If you're in the mood for something more upscale, Paolo's Ristorante offers appetizers for $3 to $6. Add to that $3 rail drinks and $4 Stella and Guinness, and there are worse places to park yourself between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Oh, and if you're a woman, you should stop by on Thursdays. After 10 p.m., ladies get $3 cocktails, draft beers and glasses of wine. Sorry, guys. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, though, women still earn only 80 percent of what men do, if that makes you feel better.

Rich Dad Poor Dad

One dad was highly educated and intelligent; he had a Ph.D. and had completed four years of under-graduate work in less than two years. He then went to do his advanced studies... all on full financial scholarships.

My other dad never finished the eighth grade.

Both men were successful in their careers, working hard all their lives. Both earned substantial incomes.

Yet my highly educated dad struggled financially all his life and the other dad would become one of the richest men I had ever known.

One died leaving tens of millions of dollars to his family, charities, and his church. The other left a legacy of unpaid bills. Both men were strong, charismatic, and influential.

Both men offered me advice, but they did not advise the same things.

Having two dads as advisors offered me the perspective of contrasting points of view: one of a rich man and one of a poor man. This forced me to think about, and ultimately choose, a way of thinking for myself. A way of thinking that assures long-term wealth and true prosperity!

A Case of The Mondays

If you're feeling miserable about our struggling economy and various national crises, you need some Irish poetry. No one elucidates miserable like the bards of the Emerald Isle. Check out Eamonn Grennan, an accomplished poet who's reading at the Folger Theatre tonight. His work is heartbreakingly open without being simplistic or ringing false. After the reading, you can meet the author. f.z.

2 Rocking on a Dream

After so many hockey games this month, the Verizon Center has reached a testosterone singularity. Riding the end of that wave is the ultimate man's musician: Bruce Springsteen. Accompanied by his trusty E Street Band (even though the Verizon Center is on F Street), the balladeer of an economically depressed America will be playing his greatest hits, and then some, in concert tonight. f.z.

tonight's lineup

MAMBO NO. 267

DANCING WITH THE STARS (8 p.m., ABC) continues.

TROUBLESOME OFFSPRING

As Jack's long day winds down to its final two hours 24 (8 p.m., Fox), it seems that both his dilemma and the president's woes revolve around their once-estranged daughters.

MORE UNDERAGE DRINKING!

Graduation day on GOSSIP GIRL (8 p.m., CW).

TRAGIC LEGACY

"American Experience" (9 p.m., PBS) dusts off its 1992 epic history THE KENNEDYS and updates it to include Sen. Ted Kennedy's 2008 illness and his role in the Obama candidacy.

CAREFUL CONSIDERATION

Jeff has doubts on RULES OF ENGAGEMENT (9:30 p.m., CBS).

THINK ONCE; THINK TWICE

Charlie has second thoughts on

TWO AND A HALF MEN (9 p.m., CBS).

NIGHTMARISH PLOT

After disturbing dreams about

Jack Bauer's long day comes to an end on tonight's two-hour finale of "24."

a young woman (Rumer Willis), Allison reaches out to her imprisoned former colleague (Angelica Huston) on MEDIUM (10 p.m., NBC).

TED'S MEDIUM ADVENTURES

Ted flogs his business on HOW I MET

YOUR MOTHER (8:30 p.m., CBS).

All Eyes on the Single Lady

A 'Bachelor' reject is crowned ABC's newest 'Bachelorette'

ROSES | Jilted by "Bachelor" Jason Mesnick, Jillian Harris has been anointed "The Bachelorette" (9 p.m., ABC). She'll spend many weeks winnowing down a McMansion full Ken dolls to see whether one is her One True Love. There are probably worse ways to earn a living.

When she's not an emotional exhibitionist, Jillian, 29, works as a restaurant interior designer in Vancouver, British Columbia. Notice the specificity in that resume. She doesn't do home interiors, or banks, bakeries or florist shops. Will that make her too picky to find Mr. Right?

She is said to have participated in — and we quote — "one of the steamiest hot tubs in 'Bachelor' history."

"Bachelorette" Jillian Harris poses with her gaggle of willing and available men.

On another note, sometimes it seems that TV programmers have schemed to keep men and women apart. While one audience sits glued to "The Bachelorette," another huddles before "4th and Long" (10 p.m., Spike), Michael Irvin's reality TV quest to find the next great Dallas Cowboy. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Backseat Distraction

Some quick tips for making summer car trips more bearable

LIFE SAVERS | Dreading long car trips this summer? Here are three inexpensive things that can help keep the peace in the car and make the journey more interesting.

→ FM TRANSMITTER: Stream music from your MP3 player to the car radio with this simple add-on. The sound quality is not as good as you'll get when connecting to the stereo with a wire, but in a rental car, you may not have an alternative. $20-$30

→ IPHONE AND IPOD TOUCH APPS FOR TODDLERS: Distract a young child for a while with "Spawn," where firework-light streamers react to the user's touch. "Bubbles" lets you drag across the screen to create bubbles, then pop them with a touch. "Preschool Music" lets a toddler tap out tunes on the screen. Headphones might be in order to spare the rest of the car. $1 per app.

→ RECHARGABLE EXTERNAL BATTERY PACK: Cigarette-lighter adapters are a life-saver when it comes to keeping electronics running, but there's only one outlet for a family's dozen gadgets. Get a rechargeable battery pack to power iPods, phones and game devices in the backseat.

The crucial figure to look for is the pack's capacity, expressed in milliampere-hours. Some cheap ones have only 500 mAh capacity. Bigger ones have more than 3000 mAh, enough for three full charges of a cell phone. $15-$50.

DISCUSSIONS

FAST FORWARD

Have you evaluated the Flip UltraHD and its competitors? Which is better? I will be shooting day-time footage for use on an Internet news site.

The Flip UltraHD will certainly work for that, but if you're looking to upload directly to a site, you may find that the FlipShare software gets in your way, since it assumes that you'll want to upload to YouTube or MySpace. You also may find that its quality isn't quite professional-grade.

What do you think of the iPod-enabled HDTVs on the market?

I was a little floored the first time I saw Sony introduce an HDTV with an iPod dock, but it was following the lead of a lot of other people. Now that you can put a movie on an iPod, this feature does make some sense. But if you only listen to music on your iPod, it's a waste — most TVs have weak speakers.

What's up with Apple TV? Apple has demonstrated the power of Internet downloads with iTunes. So, why is the TV catalog so sparse, and is there any inkling that it will get better?

I have no idea. Apple seems to have forgotten that this device exists — I mean, where are these guys even finding 40-gig hard drives for the thing these days? Maybe the developers conference next month will bring news about the Apple TV, but I hate to even make predictions after being wrong about this device so many times before.

B.I.O.

BY INVITATION ONLY: UPCOMING WEDDINGS & UNIONS

Austin Hawk, Danielle Pearson

Austin, 35, is a manager at a consulting firm. Danielle, 36, is a consultant. They will live in Washington.

- The Main Event: About 150 guests will witness the couple's May 25 wedding on the Chesapeake Bay.
- How They Met: At a bowling party, waiting in line for their shoes. Soon, "the two of us were kicking the crap out of everyone who dared to bowl against us," Austin says.
- First Date: A "marathon date" with a museum visit, dinner, dessert and an open-mic event — "and then he wanted to head to U Street. I had to tell him that I thought it was time to call it a night."

■ How He Proposed: In his home. "I hid the ring so well that she couldn't find it ... totally threw off my game. I was tripping all over my words."

■ When He Knew: When she helped him sand and stain his staircase. "I can't see too many women willing to get sawdust in their face to impress a date."

■ Their Song: "Fortunate" by Maxwell, which he sang to her one night after it started playing in his head.

■ Pet Names: "D-Nice" — a play on her middle name and a nod to their admiration for '80s and '90s hip-hop.

■ With Infinite Funds: They'd fly in faraway friends and family to be part of their day.

"I hid the ring so well that she couldn't find it ... totally threw off my game."

He Said, 'O My, O My'

Music means a lot to this couple: When they met, ALICIA WALKER was trying to score a part in a play RAY WATSON had written — and he was interested in more than her singing. "His zoned-out, dreamy expression was telling me all he was hearing was 'blah, blah, blah' and violins," she says. When he took her to see a play at a local church last year, the director called her to the stage, supposedly to thank her for her work in the ministry. But then their song, "When I First Saw You" from "Dreamgirls," started playing and their pictures popped up on the big screen. Ray read her an original poem and then asked her to marry him. "It was so loud with applause and cheers that I couldn't hear her say yes!"

Alicia, 25, and Ray, 27, are both personnel security specialists. They will marry May 23 and will live in Hyattsville.

Frank Lee, Emily Ku

Frank, 28, is a medical student. Emily, 27, is a research analyst. The couple are moving to Boston after they are married.

- The Main Event: May 30 in Falls Church, with a traditional Chinese banquet for 150 guests afterward.
- How They Met: Through a mutual friend from school.
- First Impressions: "She laughed a lot, but not at any of my jokes. That's still how it is today." "I noticed his smile!"

"I get embarrassed when little kids point and yell, 'Hey, it's Superman!'"

- First Date: An Alexander Calder exhibit at the Phillips Collection, then Kobe steaks at Cafe Mozu. Sen. Joe Lieberman was in the restaurant the same night. Emily says, "I was too busy eating my steak to even notice!"
- How He Proposed: Frank had picked out the ring but not the venue when Emily serendipitously suggested a trip to the Cayman Islands. On their final night there, he popped the question.
- Most Hated Clothing Item: His Superman shirt. "I get embarrassed when little kids point and yell, 'Hey, it's Superman!'" she says.
- The Dress: An A-line gown she got at Filene's Running of the Brides. "I wasn't planning on buying a dress that day, but you can't beat the price!"
- Their Song: "Lucky" by Jason Mraz and Colbie Caillat. "We've been long-distance for four years, and the song really resonates with us."

Jeremy Cluchey, Sally Robinson

Jeremy, 28, is a government analyst. Sally, 29, is a program officer. They live in Washington.

- The Main Event: They'll marry May 30 on the Cherry Blossom riverboat in Alexandria in front of 150 guests.
- Honeymoon: Snorkeling, surfing and sailing in the British Virgin Islands. "Jeremy will be captain, and I will try to be a good first mate!"

■ How They Met: She dropped her scarf near Dupont Circle; he picked it up.

■ First Impressions: "I saw this pretty girl had dropped her scarf, so my first thought was, 'Nice — free scarf!' But then I felt bad and decided to return it."

■ First Date: Dinner at a Tibetan/Nepali restaurant. She tried to cancel; he guilted her by saying it was his birthday. (It was.) She demanded to see his ID.

■ How He Proposed: On a ski trip, he led her to a clearing where a bottle of champagne and two glasses waited on a snow-covered picnic table. "I thought we'd stumbled on someone else's romantic surprise," she says.

■ Most Hated Clothing Item: Her Baltimore Orioles hat. "I bought her a Red Sox one to replace it."

■ Making It Unique: They'll have a lobster bake (in honor of his Maine roots) and — in lieu of a cake — grape pies, the specialty of Naples, N.Y., Sally's hometown.

■ With Unlimited Funds: She'd have hired the Dixie Chicks to play their song, "Easy Silence."

Getting Married? If you'd like to see your wedding or commitment ceremony in B.I.O., send your favorite informal photograph (wacky is fine, but please don't send a formal engagement shot), plus your names and ceremony date to weddings@readexpress.com. Please contact us at least one month before your wedding. We'll get back to you with questions.

“Screen on the Green is a bright spot of D.C. life, a summer tradition, an excuse for picnicking, the best way to enjoy hot summer nights and one of the better public events in the area — and it’s FREE!”

COMMENTER SAD MEGAN, WHO ADDED, “ITS CANCELLATION IS A HUGE LOSS. A FATAL WOUND TO D.C. CULTURE FROM WHICH WE WILL NEVER RECOVER.”

“The trouble with Screen on the Green for me was timing. They always scheduled it when D.C. is prone to heat waves and afternoon thunderstorms.”

COMMENTER VALERIE, WHO ADDED, “HOW NICE WOULD IT BE TO SIT THERE ON AN EARLY AUTUMN NIGHT, WHEN THE HUMIDITY AND SWELTER HAVE GONE?”

“What a relief to have this battle settled once and for all. Face it: This dilemma was having a devastating impact on the lives of dozens of people!”

A COMMENTER AT VOICES.WASHINGTONPOST.COM POKES FUN AT THE NOW-RESOLVED DISPUTE BETWEEN THE D.C. COUNCIL AND MAYOR ADRIAN FENTY OVER THE USE OF 19 BOX SUITE SEATS AT NATIONALS PARK.

“THE VENDOR didn’t have a table or anything, just a pile of baby turtle containers on the hot, dirty sidewalk. Lord knows what kind of short and miserable lives these poor turtles will have.”

MR-T-IN-DC.LIVEJOURNAL.COM DIDN’T KNOW WHAT TO THINK OF A GUY WHO WAS SELLING TURTLES ON THE STREET IN COLUMBIA HEIGHTS.

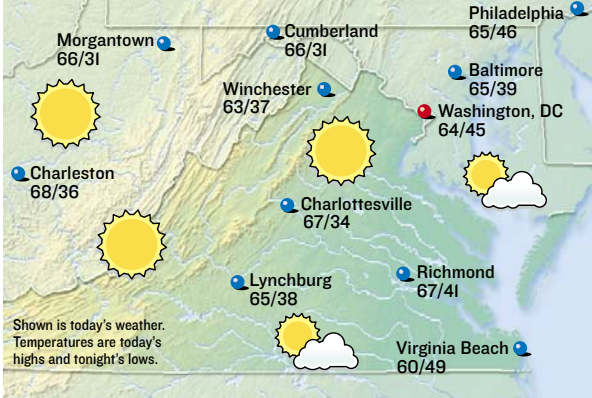

“THIS ISN’T just locker talk; it’s a hot mess of opinions, hormones and frustrations, an online watering hole for kids who wouldn’t even talk to each other in the hallways. That almost seems like a positive.”

JUSTUPTHEPIKE.COM THINKS PEOPLESDIRT.COM — A SITE ON WHICH A THREAT WAS RECENTLY MADE AGAINST WALT WHITMAN HIGH SCHOOL IN BETHESDA, MD. — IS A REAL PROBLEM FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY SCHOOLS.

ELLEN DEGENERES and Harry Connick Jr. returned Saturday to their hometown of New Orleans to cheer on Tulane University's graduating "Katrina Class" — the students displaced by Hurricane Katrina nearly four years ago. "Look at you," DeGeneres told the 2,000-plus graduates at the Louisiana Superdome. "Usually, when you're wearing a robe at 10 in the morning, it means you've given up." (AP)

Sri Lanka Rebels Admit Defeat

Fierce civil war reaches 'bitter end' after a quarter-century

COLOMBO, SRI LANKA | The Tamil Tigers admitted defeat Sunday in their fierce quarter-century war for a separate homeland as government forces raced to clear the last pockets of rebel resistance from the war zone in the north.

Far from the battlefield, thousands of Sri Lankans danced in the streets of Colombo, celebrating the stunning collapse of one of the world's most sophisticated insurgencies. But with rebel leader Velupillai Prabhakaran still at large, the threat of renewed guerrilla warfare remained.

The Tamil Tigers once controlled a shadow state complete with courts, police and a tax system across a wide swath of the north. By Sunday, troops had surrounded the remaining rebels in a 0.4-square-mile patch of land and were fighting off suicide bombs and other attacks, the military said.

Military spokesman Brig. Udaya Nanayakkara said the civilians trapped in the war zone — 63,000 in all — fled to safety during the past 72 hours. But rebel official Selvarasa Pathmanathan said the bodies of thousands of wounded and slain civilians lay strewn across the war zone. "This battle has reached its bitter end," he said. (AP)

Sri Lankans Celebrate War's End

Threat of renewed battle remains despite Tamil Tigers' defeat

COLOMBO, SRI LANKA | Clouds of black smoke drifted over the remnants of the shadow state the Tamil Tiger rebels had previously controlled across northern Sri Lanka. The once-feared insurgent group lay in tatters, its dreams of a homeland for minority Tamils dashed.

Far from the battlefield, thousands of Sri Lankans danced in the streets of Colombo, celebrating their government's stunning victory after more than 25 years of civil war that killed more than 70,000 people.

As government forces swept across the rebels' last outposts in the northeast Sunday, the rebels admitted defeat and offered to lay down their guns. The government ignored the offer and raced to clear the last pockets of rebel resistance from the battlefield.

But with rebel leader Velupillai Prabhakaran still at large, the threat of renewed guerrilla warfare remained. Several rebel fighters committed suicide when they were surrounded, but it wasn't clear whether Prab-

Sri Lankans in Colombo on Sunday hold a national flag as they celebrate the government's victory in the 25-year civil war.

LEADER'S FATE UNCLEAR

→ Speculation mounted Sunday that Velupillai Prabhakaran, the leader of the Tamil Tigers for more than three decades, was dead.

→ Under Prabhakaran's leadership for more than three decades, the rebels were transformed from little more than a street gang into feared guerrillas who once controlled nearly one-fifth of Sri Lanka.

→ The rebels had said that if they lost the conventional war, they would return to their guerrilla roots.

hakaran or other leaders were among them.

The Tamil Tigers once controlled a wide swath of the north of this Indian Ocean island nation, running a de facto state complete with courts, police and a tax system. By Sunday, they were surrounded in a small patch of land, the military said.

25 YEARS OF TURMOIL

- 1983 Sri Lanka's civil war begins, seven years after Tamil Tigers demand separate state for minority ethnic Tamils.
- 1991 Tamil Tiger suicide bomber assassinates Indian PM Rajiv Gandhi, apparently revenge for Indian troops who fought rebels.
- 2002 Sri Lankan government signs cease-fire deal with Tamil Tigers.
- 2008 After relations deteriorate due to failed peace talks and deadly attacks by both sides, truce is officially terminated.
- Jan. 2009 The military captures rebels' de facto capital, Kilinochchi, and last major stronghold, Mullaittivu.

On the battlefield, soldiers inspected the charred remains of rebel trucks and heavy artillery pieces, according to footage broadcast on state television. Sri Lankans poured into the streets of Colombo, lighting firecrackers, dancing to the beat of drums, waving flags and hugging soldiers.

"We all will be able to live in peace in our motherland again," said Jinadasa Liyanage, 26.

Japan Reports Explosion of Illness

Swine flu's spread is likely hot topic during WHO event this week

GENEVA | Health experts are looking very closely at the spread of swine flu among people in Spain, Britain and Japan, a WHO official said Sunday as Japan reported a one-day explosion of more than 70 new cases, mostly among teens.

The swine flu epidemic is already expected to dominate the World Health Organization's annual meeting, a five-day event that begins Monday in Geneva and involves health officials from the agency's 193 member states.

WHO Director-General Dr.

Soccer fans wear face masks as they watch a game in Niigata, Japan, Sunday.

Margaret Chan will reveal experts' recommendations on the production of a swine flu vaccine sometime at the meeting. Pharmaceutical companies are ready to begin production, but many decisions have to be made first, including how much vaccine to make.

As of Sunday, the swine flu virus — which WHO calls the A(H1N1) virus — has sickened at least 8,480 people in 40 countries, killing 75 of them, mostly in Mexico. (AP)

INDIA | BODY OF WATER

WET WALKWAY: A man's image is reflected in a puddle after a heavy shower in Agartala, India, Sunday.

SCIENCE Grisly Conclusion A leading fossil expert claims to have solved the mystery of the disappearance of Neanderthals 30,000 years ago, the (U.K.) Guardian reported Sunday. Fernando Rozzi, of Paris's Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique, said modern humans ate the species, basing his opinion on the study of a Neanderthal jawbone apparently destroyed by humans. The butchery was similar to the way the humans ate deer, Rozzi said. "Neanderthals met a violent end at our hands, and in some cases we ate them," he said.
